DRIVES MILES TO BUY BOND.

Mr. Muggleton was called from his bed early this morning by the porter at Liberty loan headquarters, asking him to come to the office at once as there was a man there who wished to buy a bond.

Mr. Muggleton hurried to the office, arriving there before seven o'clock, and upon reaching there found a farmer residing in the town of Center, who had driven to Janesville to purchase a $500 bond. The bond buyer stated he was eighty-three years of age and that he started early this morning as he wanted to be sure that he made his purchase before another day had passed.

Many is being handed a terrible blow by the citizens of Janesville, by the splendid way in which they are supporting the Fourth Liberty loan.

Charles Muggleton, manager of the executive committee of the campaign, stated this morning that it is hoped that the campaign will be successfully closed on Thursday evening. A new campaign has been made where the whistles in the city will blow every time another $50,000 has been subscribed. Once during the day the whistles will be blown a gain of $50,000, making the total up to this afternoon $950,000, or $150,000 less than the quota.

A STATEMENT

To the Citizens of Janesville, and Rock County.

The Janesville Chamber of Commerce has pledged itself to winning the war—this is of paramount importance.

The Janesville Chamber of Commerce, too, has undertaken the task of developing the City of Janesville in keeping with the demands of the city's industrial growth.

This development will entail the expenditure of more than Twelve Million of Dollars, it is estimated. The Government is and has been co-operating with us in this.

Should you fail in topping the rise—going over the allotment in the Fourth Liberty Loan—it will, without doubt, place us in a lessening position. This is a frank, open statement of facts.

The development ahead is too stupendous a task to be wholly absorbed by the city itself, therefore, requiring the aid of the Government. Back up your own city, your own country.

With Janesville a greater city every day, the city itself can have an increased market for its product—here is where it effects you, Mr. Farmer.

Those working for the Loan and those working with the Government are doing an unselfish work for the interest of all the people. Look realists straight in the face and realize that if we will have, we must have it.

With Liberty will and spirit not to be denied let us not only reach the goal but GO OVER, AND GO OVER BIG.

It required the aid of the Government. Back up your own city, your own country.

GARDNER KALVELAGE PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Announcement of the death of Allen Gardner Kalvelage at Mercy hospital this morning, a victim of pneumonia, following an attack of Spanish influenza, comes as a shock to his friends, both here in Janesville and throughout the country. Few knew of his illness and word that he had passed to the world beyond is almost unbelievable.

Born in Janesville, September 28th, 1884, Gardner Kalvelage grew to manhood here and except for the period spent at Milwaukee Normal, spent his entire life here.

Allen James Crane of the Town of Center passed away at Mercy hospital Saturday night at 8:45. He was sick for a short time with an attack of Spanish influenza which developed into pneumonia. He was born in Janesville January 11, 1884 and had made his home on a farm near the city. He was a member of the I. C. C. He leaves to mourn his death a sorrowing mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. James Crane, four brothers, Robert, Lawrence, Vincent and John, and three sisters, Sarah, Catherine and Morris all of the Town of Center. The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church at ten o'clock Tuesday morning.

Donald Jungblut

The little twenty month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jungblut passed away at his home Saturday afternoon of pneumonia. His father and mother are both sick with Spanish influenza and were unable to attend the little child's funeral which was held this morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church. has been a resident of this city and one of the earliest believers in its future and present greatness. A democrat in politics, he was for many years a country chairman of that party and prominent in its affairs of democracy. He studied law in the office of George G. Sutherland and was admitted to the bar. Up to he was elected justice of the peace and held that office at the time of his death.

A devout member of Christ Episcopal church and a true Christian. His writings were carefully prepared and while acting as editor of the "Janesville Journal" he developed a pronounced style that was delightful. He believed in Janesville and was a consistent worker for what he believed in. His friends and neighbors were his friends and he was a devoted son. He made his home with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Kalvelage, 115 South Third street, and was a devoted son. CHARLES SCHULTZ STRUCK BY TRUCK

City Fireman Badly Bruised When Struck by Motor Truck Sunday Evening on Milwaukee Street.

Charles Schultz, 15 South River street, mechanic of the Janesville Fire Department, was badly bruised last evening when struck by the motor truck.

Mr. Schultz was enjoying his day off when the gong sounded about seven o'clock Sunday evening. He was on his way home in an attempt to catch the truck. Upon reaching the corner of Milwaukee and River street he attempted to catch it, but was struck and thrown to the ground.

At first it was thought that Mr. Schultz was seriously injured, but a close examination failed to reveal any bones broken. He will be laid up for several days.

The department was called to a fire in the market at the corner of Western and Lincoln streets. One of the hose was required to extinguish the fire.

DEWEY KLUG GIVEN YEAR IN COUNTY JAIL

Dewey Klug, who has been in the municipal court so many times that he can't keep track of them again appeared in court Saturday afternoon, breaking his parole. Klug was placed under the commitment law a short time ago by Judge Maxfield, but he continued to strut about the city and consume his usual amount of liquor.

Klug was arrested Saturday and brought before Judge Maxfield, who gave him one year in the county jail. When Judge Maxfield finished his lecture and handed Dewey the year and a half, he said that kidding the law was no joke.

BRIDE of BATTLE

A Romance of the American Army Fighting on the Battlefields of France.

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

Copyright, 1918, by W. G. Chapman

They had driven the Germans from the last house of the village. The delay had saved the day. The reserves had come pouring in. On the ridge beyond the enemy was marshaling for a last counter-attack.

Mark looked about him. Lieutenants, captains who should have commanded companies, mingled with privates and noncoms, were following, as if hypnotized, this middle-aged private with the red cross on his arm. As Mark looked, his heart swelled with the consciousness and pride of leadership. And, at his glance, a roar went up that was caught up from man to man and sent echoing into the distance.

And Mark was swept away with unconquerable enthusiasm. It was his day, the day of which every soldier dreams.

"Come along, boys! Break them up!" he shouted, and ran forward.

With one resounding cheer the lines swept after him. A ripple of machine-gun fire caught them, but could not hold them. Over the fallen they pressed on, cries of triumph upon their lips, the faces, set above the gleaming bayonets, animated by a single purpose. And now they were upon them.

Mark fought in the bloody swirl. Blades thrust at him, bullets tore his tattered uniform. Once he was down, and he saw a giant rush at him with clubbed rifle. He raised his arm, he tried to drive with his sword, lunged and missed. Then the uplifted rifle fell harmlessly beside him, and the giant fell forward, dead, over him, pinning him to the ground, and covering him with his blood. A bayonet thrust had passed clean through his body.

And, looking up bewildered, Mark thought he saw Hartley's face look into his own.

Next moment Mark was on his feet again, and Hartley had vanished. But already the last tussle was over. The Germans broke and fled.

Mark stood still, gasping. The men were crowding all about him, waving their helmets on bayonet points, cheering him, shaking his hand. Across the field two mounted men were riding. They came up to the ridge, and one, a white-haired old officer, leaped to the ground and swung Mark's hand.

"My thanks—our country's thanks to you!" he cried. "What is your name?"

Mark looked and saw the General's

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

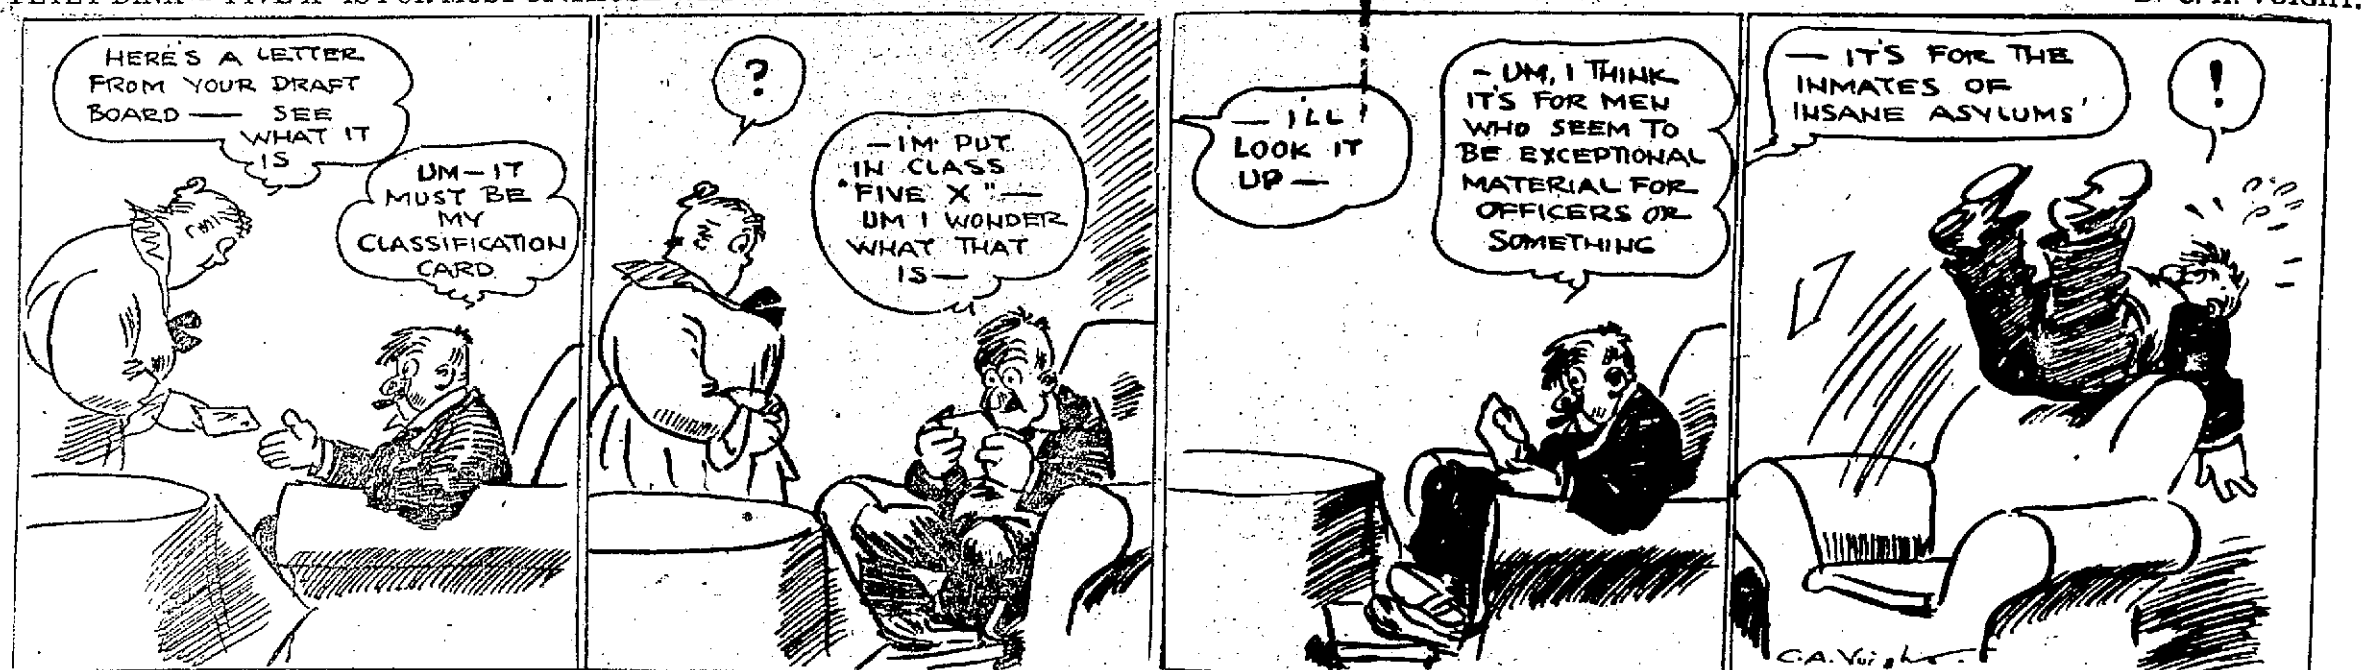

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

HOW TO FIGHT OFF THE GRIP

Commonsense Rules Everybody Should Follow To Avoid Danger From Great Epidemic

To keep well—keep clean. Avoid the person who sneezes. Warmth is necessary—be well clothed. Sleep well, eat well, play well. Avoid over-exertion. Do not let yourself get run-down. Those who are weak and run-down are the earliest victims. Remember that Father John's Medicine makes fighting strength to ward off the attacks of the grip germ. Keep away from houses where there are cases of influenza. A neglected cold leads to grip or pneumonia. Take Father John's Medicine at the first sign of cold. It has had more than 50 years of success treating colds and coughs. Do not take medicine containing narcotic drugs, derivatives of opium or other poisons. You are safe when you take Father John's Medicine because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

insignia upon the officer's shoulder-straps.

"Weston," he answered.

And suddenly he remembered Eleanor, and, ashamed and humiliated, and yet strangely elevated, he began to push his way back through the crowd.

He turned into the street of the jail. Dead bodies lay everywhere, and already some of the ambulance men were succoring the wounded. Broken guns, rifles, haversacks, all the paraphernalia of battle strewn the streets. The debris of the jail came into view. The sun, dancing above it, indicated, to Mark's astonishment, that hours had passed, and that it was afternoon. Mark felt suddenly sick, he trembled, and with his last reserves of strength he staggered forward.

Then he saw Colonel Howard within the office in the wall, and Eleanor kneeling beside him, holding a water-bottle to his lips. She turned, saw him, and ran to him, folded her arms about his neck and pressed her lips to his.

CHAPTER XVI.

Even as he kissed her in return he saw the startled glance that she cast behind her, and, following it with his eyes, he saw a tall figure in uniform emerge from the recesses of the office; and again he stood face to face with Kellerman.

Eleanor released him and stood, still clinging to him, at his side, her hand drawn through his arm. The contrast between the two men was extraordinary. Kellerman looked as if he had just stepped into his uniform; his gloved hands, his adjusted belt, the creases in his tunic were those of the fashion-plate. Looking at Mark, he saw a dirty, grimed, almost unrecognizable figure, with uniform that hung about him in great tatters, blotched and stained with blood.

"You said he would not come back!" cried Eleanor. "You see he has come back. What have you to say more?"

"You misunderstood me, Eleanor—" "I understand you now for the first time in my life. I liked you, Major Kellerman. I trusted you and I believed in you. When you told me that you were working to get Captain Wallace his recognition I was glad, and proud of you both, and happy. What did you do?"

"What did he do?" cried Kellerman furiously. "Why should you believe evil things of me, because he said them?"

"He never spoke one word against you!"

"When the decision has already been made by an impartial court, anxious to clear a soldier's character, if that were possible?"

"Because I have a woman's instinct, Major Kellerman."

"Enough of this!" interposed Mark. "What are you doing here, sir?"

He snatched the last word out in irony so bitter that Kellerman winced. "So you've cheated the firing party, Private Weston!" he said, with his habitual sneer.

"O, call me Mark while you're about it," answered Wallace. "Or please remember that I am no longer under your command, nor a soldier in the American army. Technically I am a dead man, Major Kellerman, and dead men—"

"Tell no tales, eh?" responded Kellerman savagely. "Well, here we stand man to man, and the conditions warrant plain speaking. It is not my business to place you under arrest. But if I do so, you are aware that your life will be worth about five minutes' purchase. So go, Mr. Weston, or Wallace, or whatever you call yourself now. Go—If Miss Eleanor here says the one word that will set you free. Go—and in this confusion you will have a reasonable chance to escape, with those ready wits of yours."

"The one word?" Eleanor gasped.

"The one word 'yes,'" responded Kellerman.

"I will never become your wife, Major Kellerman."

"So you told me the other day, after leading me to suppose that it was your intention," answered Kellerman easily.

"Stop, Mr. Weston, if you please, and let me finish! War doesn't leave much sentimentality in a man. We know what life is worth, and we know that life's a matter of bargaining. When we were in America I might have accepted my dismissal, Eleanor, but here we three stand under the naked heaven, like ants on a mill. All artificial distinctions have fallen away. I've loved you for many months, Eleanor, and I want to marry you. That's the bald truth of it. In order to persuade you, I am willing to let this gentleman escape—to facilitate his escape, even to make our marriage dependent on my success. That's fair, isn't it? And what have you against me? Is it my fault that he was court-martialed and sentenced to death for striking an officer?"

The man's effrontery took Mark's breath away.

"My answer," responded Eleanor steadily, "is 'no.' And even if you could send him to his death it would still be 'no.' Because he himself would wish that. But you can't harm him. Something convinces me that all the harm that has come to him has come from you. And it tells me, too, that your power has ended. 'No,' is my answer."

"And yours, Mr. Weston?" asked Kellerman, looking at Mark.

Mark, unable to reply, pointed toward the opening of the recess. Kellerman turned and strode toward it. Then he turned.

"There's one thing more to say," he said. "Your action in dismissing me, Miss Howard, savors of the romantic drama. Your life has been a romantic one, with a certain high-strung idealism in it, due to the circumstances of your upbringing. It was that, I believe, which made you think it your duty to follow your adopted father's unit to the front. I think you ought to know who you are. Your father died on the battlefield of Santiago. He was a fugitive from justice. He was the notorious Hampton."

Mark uttered a cry. He sprang toward Kellerman, but Kellerman dealt him a blow that sent him stumbling among the bricks.

"The Child of a Wretched Traitor."

"That's a lie, Kellerman!" said Colonel Howard quietly.

The old Colonel's eyes were wide open. He laid his hands laboriously upon the edge of the brick wall and, with a great effort, raised himself to his feet.

"That's a lie," he repeated.

"It is no lie, Colonel Howard. You told the whole story to Captain Wallace in the hospital tent. Never mind how I know. I know."

"You damned, dirty spy!" said the old Colonel.

"A confession," answered Kellerman blandly. "Your words were strong ones, Colonel Howard. Deny them if you can. You said, 'A thousand years

WEAK, RUN DOWN WOMAN

Tells How Vinol Made Her Strong

So, Kaukauna, Wis.—"I was weak, all run down, tired all the time, and had asthma so I could hardly keep around and do my housework. After everything else had failed to help me, Vinol built me up and made me well and strong."—Mrs. Jay Parker.

The reason Vinol was so successful in Mrs. Parker's case, is because it contains the necessary elements to create an appetite, aid digestion, make pure blood and create strength. It is the best and cod liver peptones—iron and glycerophosphates in Vinol—that does it—you will not be disappointed if you try it. Smith Drug Co. Vinol is sold in Brodhead by W. J. Smith and druggists everywhere.

Trained Nurse Advises People

"I was a great sufferer of stomach and liver trouble and cannot say enough in praise of May's Wonderful Remedy. It has done so much for me and I am recommending it to other sufferers. I was a trained nurse in Marine and other hospitals years ago, therefore may come to me for advice. I certainly received great benefit from May's Wonderful Remedy." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker, Druggist.

of hell wouldn't atone for that crime. You said 'it was calculated, cold-blooded deliberation.' You said, 'The case against Hampton was absolutely proven. He was to have been hanged as soon as we captured Santiago. He was born rotten. He sold his country to pay his gambling debts.' And you called him by the worst name one man can call another. That was why you tried to persuade Mark Wallace not to adopt Hampton's child. Like father, like daughter."

He swung round upon Eleanor, and for the first time seemed to lose his self-control.

"That's who you are!" he cried. "The child of a wretched traitor, who worked in the war department with Colonel Howard and me, a man without honor, entangled with a wretched woman spy, who sold our secrets. And that man—your adopted father, whom you love and revere, spied on him in turn, watched him, read his letters, went through his pockets, snared him, trapped him, brought him to his deserts—and adopted you."

Eleanor staggered toward the Colonel, her arms raised imploringly, and cried in a choking voice:

"Say it's untrue! Only say that it's untrue!"

"It's a damned lie," said the Colonel; but there was not the least conviction in his voice.

"Tell me the truth!"

"It's true, then—it's more or less true," said Howard wearily.

"It's not true!" shouted Mark. "Remember, Colonel, the man's face had been practically blown away. How do we know that it was Hampton who was with the child? It might have been another. We don't know for sure, and we can't know. I've never believed it. I wouldn't ever dare to let myself believe it."

"You found his papers," said Kellerman.

Nobody answered him. Eleanor went up to Mark and raised her white face to his. "Tell me what you think, Captain Mark," she pleaded.

"And once more Mark was mute. She read his face as if by inches. She turned toward Kellerman. "Now will you go?" she asked.

Kellerman saluted her with mock formality. "I'll go," he said, "but he's spent his chance. A spy's daughter and a spy's—"

The ambulance bearers appeared at the entrance to the recess. They bore a stretcher. Propped up in it, swathed in a bloody clout of bandages, was Hartley.

"There he is!" he cried, pointing his hand in triumph. "I knew he'd come this way. He's here, sir!" he cried to some one outside the office.

The stretcher bearers set down their burden on a ledge of the wall. Into the little place strode the General.

His appearance there exercised a paralyzing effect upon them all. Kellerman was the first to recover his self-possession. He saluted stiffly.

"This man," he said, pointing to Mark, "is the prisoner who was to have been executed this morning."

The General, without a word, strode toward Mark and clasped him by the hand.

Kellerman gulped and moved toward the entrance for the last time. The General turned.

"Halt, sir!" he commanded. "Colonel Howard, will you have the goodness to go to the man on the—why, I beg your pardon, Colonel! Not badly hurt?"

"Nothing much, sir," answered the Colonel, attempting to make the passage.

The General gave him his arm and assisted him, and when he stood still, placed one arm about him to steady him.

"Do you recognize that man?" he asked.

The Colonel stiffened; Kellerman fell back against the wall.

"As I'm a living man," cried Colonel Howard, "it's Hampton!"

Dinner Stories

Two American soldiers were engaged in trench digging, when one asked the other if he remembered the big posters back home saying, "Enlist and see the world."

"Yes," replied his companion. "But why?"

"Well, I didn't know we had to dig clear through it in order to see it."

A certain conceited subaltern, a too-obvious Londoner, found his way into a Scottish regiment, where, his blatant cockneyisms created irritation. One morning he walked into the mess, and wanted (rather too loudly) to know why the pipers had not arrived.

The adjutant looked at him reproachfully.

"When you have been in the regiment a little longer, sir," he said, "you will learn that the pipers do not play until the evening."

In China, when the subscriber rings up Exchange, the operator may be expected to ask:

"What number does the honorable Mr. of the moon and stars desire?"

"Rohi, two-three." Silence. Then the Exchange resumes:

"Will the honorable person graciously forgive the inadequacy of the insignificant service and permit this humble slave of the wire to inform him that the never-to-be-sufficient-censured line is busy?"

A juror recently met to inquire into a case of suicide. After sitting through the evidence the twelve men retired, and after deliberating returned with the following verdict:

"The jury are all of one mind—temporarily insane!"

Don't Let Catarrh Drag You into Consumption

Avoid Its Dangerous Stage. There is a more serious stage of Catarrh than the annoyance caused by the stopped-up air passages, and the hacking and spitting and other distasteful features.

The real danger comes from the tendency of the disease to continue its course downward until the lungs become affected, and then dreaded consumption is on your path. Your own experience has taught you that the disease cannot be cured by sprays, inhalers, atomizers, jellies and other local applications.

S. S. S. has proven a most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh because it goes direct to its source, and removes the germs of the disease from the blood. Get a bottle from your druggist today, and begin the only logical treatment that gives real results. You can obtain special medical advice without charge by writing to Medical Director, 27 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

Myron Austin, a "Gob" from Great Lakes and a "three links" man, who is visiting I. C. Williams, was in town Sunday.

SPANISH INFLUENZA--WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT SHOULD BE TREATED

Nothing New—Simply The Old Grip, or La Grippe That Was Epidemic in 1889-90, Only Then It Came From Russia by Way of France and This Time by Way of Spain.

Go to Bed and Stay Quiet—Take a Laxative—Eat Plenty of Nourishing Food—Keep up Your Strength—Nature Is The "Cure."

ALWAYS CALL A DOCTOR

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC. Spanish influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has all the appearance of grip or la grippe, which has swept over the world in numerous epidemics as far back as history runs.

Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C. which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

There is no occasion for panic—influenza itself has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health.

The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run-down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who get up too early.

THE SYMPTOMS. Grippe, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days.

The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT. Go to bed at the first symptoms, not only for your own sake, but to avoid spreading the disease to others—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Quinine, aspirin or Dover's powder, etc., may be administered by the physician's directions to relieve the aching. But there is no cure or specific for influenza—the disease must run its course, but Nature will throw off the attack if only you keep up your strength.

The chief danger in the complications which may arise. Influenza so weakens the bodily resistance that there is danger of pneumonia or bronchitis developing, and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over fifty, or not strong,

Attorney.

MAGNOLIA

Magnolia, Oct. 12—George Andrew and family of Harvard, Ill., spent the week-end here at Mr. Andrew's parental home.

Mrs. E. Ringer delivered the Belgian relief clothing from the southwest part of our town in Evansville Thursday. One auto was filled. The congratulations of the new comforters, made by residents of the southwest part of the town. Much credit due to all who have helped since the work was begun.

R. E. Acheson of Evansville was a business caller here Tuesday.

Everybody do your bit for the Fourth Liberty loan. Hold your Liberty bonds.

The "Helpers" Union will meet
Thursday with Mrs. W. B. Andrew.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct.
14, 1878.—The funeral of Mrs. Townsend Sager took place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a large number of the friends of the deceased were present.

Mrs. Zelinger has returned from Emporia, Kansas where she was called by the illness of her son Charles. He has so far recovered as to be able to return to his duties in the telegraph office at Emporia.

Last Saturday afternoon a little son of H. M. Waldo of the Fourth ward boyishly climbed up on the back of the family horse, which stood hitched to a post in front of the house. The horse becoming frightened, threw the lad from its back. No damage was done to the child, however.

Bailey's new cotton batting mill, near the bridge on River street, is nearly finished and will soon be rushing business.

Dr. Charles Gish, who has been practicing in Pewaukee, is in the city.
He expects to soon take up his practice in New York city.

Mrs. D. A. Beal has been elected corresponding secretary of the Woman's State Temperance Alliance, which has just closed its annual session in Fond du Lac.

Dr. M. A. Newman has been engaged as musical director of All Souls church and Sunday school. He is organizing an orchestra to accompany the choir.

HEARD FROM OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

R. J. Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mason, South Academy street, has written a very interesting letter to his folks, telling them of his work at Camp Greenleaf. Mr. Mason was a former member of Company M, but was discharged at Camp McArthur, Waco, Tex., and later enlisted in this city.

Ray Devins of Footville also writes an interesting letter to his folks, telling them of his work at sea. Mr. Devins has been in the navy for several months.

Walter Meyer, Company D, 23th Infantry, has written two letters to his folks in this city, telling of life in a hospital behind the battle lines. Private Meyer was wounded some weeks ago and has since that time been in a hospital. The letters follow:

Mason's Letter. Oct. 7, 1918.—"Camp Greenleaf is quarantined on account of influenza and they are examining all of us twice every day. They have a camp where all the fellows who look or feel the least sick are sent and watched. We emptied all our bedclothes and washed them today and sprinkled our sleeping quarters with some kind of a preparation which kills insects and flies. Every one has to wash their teeth three times a day. They also sent me out switching cats and kittens which were running around loose. These are thought to be spreading this disease. You see the way the army goes after a big epidemic. It will be under control in just a few days."

"Now another very interesting thing is the conserving of peach and plum and prune stones from which is made the chemicals for gas masks."

"Geo. I was certainly grieved to hear of the fate of our thoughtful and most soldierly comrade, Sergeant Frank Ryan. I know that he was one of the best men in Company M and he was admired by all who came in contact with him. Also Ray Spaulding, Lawrence Griffin and the rest of the company men who have been wounded. The boys of that organization certainly deserve a world of credit, and there's many a night I lie in my bunk and wonder where the boys are and what they are doing, and think of them in the trenches, or sleeping in barns, or lying in hospitals. I long to get across and atone for what they have suffered. I have written to several of them from here but as yet I have not heard from them."

"By the way, I am going to buy another Liberty bond of this issue, and a few more war savings stamps. I am drilling men and acting corporal, but think I will get a chance to go to the non-commissioned officers' training camp in a week or so. I feel fine and am tickled to be in the service again. I would be pleased to get a few copies of the Gazette so I could see what Janesville does in this new bond issue. Your son, RAY MASON."

Letter From Ray Devins. "Philadelphia, Oct. 9, 1918.—Three cheers for the Connecticut! Hip! Hip! Hip! She sure is some good ship, and which I and the rest of the crew have to credit our lives to. I have experienced a part of the war, and the incident I shall never forget. But we made good our aim and got the best of the undersea Germans. Now I will tell you about it. Eight days ago today we put to sea, bound for our destination. We made two days and nights without a particle of delay to us. The third day, about 10:30 a. m., we caught sight of the periscope of a German submarine. We opened fire on it, but she soon sank. We were there to deliver the goods, so no sooner had the ship been struck than our gunners were busy and in the course of three minutes had sent the sub to the bottom of the Atlantic. "When we were hit—oh, what a feeling! The forward bow of the ship leaped into the air almost 25 feet and came down with a terrible splash which upset everything on board. The bottom of the ship had already begun to fill with water, but owing to the fact that there are water-tight compartments and doors (such doors were closed) the ship provided safety. We were about 300 miles off the coast when this happened, and a S. O. S. call was sent out immediately, and a destroyer was sent out to convey us back to the states. It surely was some experience. But thanks be to God, I am still alive to be here to tell about it. We are now back to Philadelphia for repairs."

"I am enjoying perfect health, so don't worry about me, or about me being ever afraid—far, far be it from such." It is just what I enjoy. "RAYMOND DEVINS."

Walter Meyer's First Letter. "France, Sept. 12, 1918.—Dear Mother and Father: I will drop you a few lines to let you know that I am feeling pretty good and my leg is getting well fast. Am walking around every day but am still here at the hospital and do not know how long I will be here. Well I did not get any mail while here, as it all goes to the company, but will get it when I get back there. I hope you are all well and happy, and think that this war will be over pretty soon, for they are getting pretty sick of it now. There are just a few horses in this town, for all they drive around here now are cows as all the horses are at war. They sure need a lot of them around here. John Carroll is around here now. I saw one of the boys of his company, but do not know if I will ever see him or not. "WALTER."

Walter Meyer's Second Letter. "Dear Father and Mother: I will write you a few lines to let you know that I am getting along pretty good, but am still here at the hospital. It takes a long time for a wound to get well, but am walking around every day, as I cannot lie in bed; I am not used to that. "I was walking around outside the town the other day and all I could see were big fields of grapes, and they sure were good ones. That is about all they have around here, for wine is all the French drink. We don't like it very well. I read in the paper that they were not going to make any beer in the U. S. until the war is over. I think it cannot last much longer. Well I will close for this time. "WALTER MEYER."

"Co. D, 28th Inf., A. E. F."

The following is a letter from Harold Anderson, somewhere in France to his sister:

We have been very busy lately moving from the British sector to the American sector and I haven't had much time to write up until present. Our company has busted up for duty, and we are behind the lines for a rest. The sixth of August our regiment started for the line to do their bit. The British had been hammering at the German strongholds in the hills for six days without success. The morning of the eighth our troops came into contact with the enemy and long before the sun was set in the golden west the place was ours. At times the advance was so rapid the Military Police and Kitchen could hardly keep up. The battle lasted from the eighth to the twelfth. I arrived in the valley of death the evening of the ninth, and had passed the old German front line. Dead and wounded were as thick as grass. We camped on the banks of the beautiful Somme river, where we had a good wash and changed our clothes and once more we looked like American soldiers. Here we received orders to entrain at — for the American sector. We arrived at the rail head early next morning. All the houses were bombed and sand bags were piled around the large hotels and buildings for protection. On this trip I met many soldiers from Wisconsin. Your brother, Harold.

ROCK

Rock, Oct. 14.—A patriotic program was given in our school Wednesday evening, T. E. Welsh of Janesville being the principal speaker. In the interest of the Liberty loan campaign.

A few cases of influenza are reported in our vicinity. None of them have assumed a serious phase, however.

Martin Dixon and John Busfield have finished their duties in the Liberty bond campaign, and find no one who will not do their bit.

Will Tiltus has carpenters building a new silo. Miss Pauline Kilmer, who is attending commercial school in Lake Geneva, was home for the weekend. Fred Collier has returned to his work in Philadelphia. Miss Lucy Kellogg is teaching school in the northern part of the state.

BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Oct. 12.—The public schools here will be closed next week on account of the influenza. Lieut. Harry White of Louisville, Ky., is spending a fourlough at his home here. A program appropriate for Liberty

Day was given at the public schools Friday.

Private M. V. Adamson is now stationed at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Millsbaugh are visiting relatives in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes of Oregon were guests at the A. G. Miller home last Sunday.

Holley Peterson is home on a ten-day furlough. He is stationed at South Baltimore, Maryland, in the navy yards, and is engaged in installing gas engines in life saving boats.

Mrs. A. J. Barber of Chicago is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Jesse Mason, Wilma O'Brien is clerking in the Mercantile store, during the absence of E. A. Smith.

The Gazette is for sale in Brooklyn at Peterson's restaurant.

Milton News

Milton, Oct. 14.—The fire department was called out at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a fire in the Wm. Lind house on Fort Atkinson street, the wing on the east end of the dwelling was consumed by the fire. The cause of the fire is a mystery. During the conflagration five truck loads of war truck training students from Janesville, Beloit and other parts were at the scene and were ready with assistance in pumping the engine and carrying water.

Under instructions of the state board of health, classes resumed recitations at Milton College, on Monday.

WILLOWDALE

Willowdale, Oct. 13.—Our entire community is grieving with Mr. and Mrs. Crane in the death of their son Allen, who died of influenza.

To know Allen was to like him and he will be sadly missed by all who know him.

Mrs. Nantz and Mrs. Beyers went to Ft. Atkinson on Friday to see their brother who is ill at his home there. The Willowdale school will be closed until further notice.

Miss Josie and Mamie Mooney are spending a few days at home. Mr. and Mrs. Lichtsuss received word of the death of their son Charles in France on Sept. 9th. He was wounded in battle on Aug. 31st. Mrs. Easton has been ill for several days. John Crane continues very ill at the hospital in Janesville.

BLUES TAKE CLOSE GAME BY 7 TO 0 SCORE

With a complete reversal of form Janesville's fighting football team "came back" and whitewashed the strong Edgerton eleven by a score of 7 to 0 Saturday. They accomplished this feat despite the loss of their star fullback Sprackling and McDermott in the back field, and Black, Garvin, Fucks and Brinkman in the line. This victory is especially relished by local football fans because it is the first time that Janesville has defeated Edgerton in many years.

The game was very close and exciting from start to finish and not decided until the last two minutes of play. Several new faces appeared in the local lineup, including Roy at quarter, Rost at full and Kober at guard. Captain Nuzum played the right end, was easily the star of the game, catching several passes and scoring the winning touchdown. Roy ran the team in the shape and was at the receiving end of these passes. "Rock" Rost deserves special mention because he stepped into Sprackling's shoes at a moment's notice and played a remarkable game, although he had had no practice and did not know the signals. Allen and Powers at halves displayed some good open field running.

The line showed marked improvement over the form displayed last Saturday and Edgerton's first downs were few and far between. Edgerton could make no progress around the ends and but little through the line. Nuzum, Allen, Kober and Scobie did especially good work.

Edgerton received the kick off and being unable to gain, punted. The locals could make but little progress on plunges and end runs, so they opened up and displayed a fine assortment of forward, backward and lateral passes. Exchanges of punts were frequent during the first half. Forward passes, Rost to Roy and Nuzum and a long end run by Powers put the ball with in striking distance, but Edgerton held and took the ball on downs. In the third quarter by means of another shower of passes Janesville carried the ball to the opponent's ten yard line, but lost it on an incomplete pass. Edgerton's goal was in danger several times during the closing half but Janesville always lacked the final punch to put the ball over.

With scarcely three minutes to play and the ball in the center of the field it seemed certain that the game would end in a scoreless tie. A short pass, Powers to Nuzum gained 15 yards around Edgerton's left end. A lengthy argument ensued but Janesville kept her gain. On the first play after the game was resumed, Nuzum caught a pretty 25 yards pass from Rost, eluded the Edgerton safety and planted the ball squarely between the goal posts. A moment later Rost kicked the ball making the score 7 to 0. Edgerton chose to receive and Allen recovered Rost's kick-off. Janesville was started on another march toward the goal when the final whistle blew. The game was fast and clean, but was marred by many fumbles. The Edgerton team had only been organized four days and would no doubt have given a much better account of itself, if it had had more practice. The Janesville lineup follows:

Right end	Connell	Nuzum
Right tackle	Hanson	Newman
Center	Scobie
Left guard	Crowley	Kober
Left end	Allen
Quarterback	Roy
Right half	Powers
Full back	Rost

CHALLENGE FOR AIR RACE IS ACCEPTED

(By Associated Press.) St. Louis, Oct. 14.—The challenge of the Chicago Aviation Club to St. Louis and other large cities of the country to undertake a trans-Atlantic airplane race has been accepted by the Manufacturers' Association, according to an announcement by Secretary Edward J. Troy.

Chicago suggests that the race be held on or before August 1 of next year. The plan well underwritten, Mr. Troy said, is to build bombing planes at a cost of approximately $50,000 each, load them with necessary commodities, and at the end of the trip turn them over to the French authorities as gifts.

Final details of the contest will be arranged by the commissioners, two to be appointed by each of the cities according to the challenge, at meetings in Chicago, Dec. 5 and 7. Obtaining permission of the government official is considered the only obstacle of importance.

The proposed route would be by way of New York, New Foundland and the Azores.

HAD A NARROW ESCAPE IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Delavan, Oct. 14.—Mike Dugan, a farmer living in this city, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury Saturday evening. He was struck by a passenger train, as he was driving across the tracks near the freight depot shortly after six. One horse was killed, the wagon demolished, but Mr. Dugan, escaped with only a few minor bruises and injuries.
